CULTURAL ORIENTATION COURSE FOR CHURCH WORKERS - 2009

Each year the Melanesian Institute conducts Cultural Orientation Courses for church workers who come from all over the world. The aim of the course is to help with the understanding and integration of the many new experiences that result from any cross-cultural endeavours, be it in teaching, health work, socio-economic development or pastoral Church ministry.

All church workers who belong to the Anglican, Catholic, Lutheran or United Churches, who are either Melanesian or if not but have been approximately one year in either Papua New Guinea or Solomon Islands, are encouraged to apply. The course, given in English, is of three-week duration in order to cover the many topics that need to be discussed. The fees cover full room and board, tuition, and hand-outs. An outline of the course is available on request.
